Bettina Frias, Director of FSB and aquanale at Koelnmesse, answers four questions about preparations for the events

Early-bird phase ends with strong demand

There are signs of very good demand for the trade fair duo of FSB and aquanale - International Trade Fair for Public Space, Sports and Leisure Facilities, and International Trade Fair for Sauna, Pool, Ambience - with just over seven months to go before they are due to open. By the end of the early-bird phase, more than 65 per cent of market-relevant companies had already confirmed their participation in both FSB and aquanale. Bettina Frias, the Koelnmesse director responsible for these events, sees this as a clear signal: "FSB and aquanale have a vital role to play in the economic development of the sectors concerned, as both events are international leaders in their segments and provide the stimulus so urgently needed by all industries in the post-coronavirus era in terms of trends, networking and the initiation of new business relationships."

Bettina Frias, Director of FSB and aquanale at Koelnmesse, answers four questions about preparations for the events

The FSB and aquanale trade fair duo will take place in Cologne from 26 to 29 October 2021. How many registrations have there been so far, and what preparations are underway?

Bettina Frias: The FSB and aquanale teams and the industries represented at the two events eagerly anticipate the start of the trade fair at the end of October because a trade fair is the only format to provide a communication platform that gives all market players an excellent and comprehensive overview of new technologies, smart concepts and product innovations. It's also the only context in which it's possible to have discussions and dialogue that are intensive enough to ultimately generate business and new leads. In this respect, we're very satisfied with the results at the end of our early-bird phase. We're recording strong demand and numerous registrations in all segments across both trade fairs. For example, leading companies including Polytan, SMG, Berliner Seilfabrik, Eurotramp, Regupol, Conica, Kaiser & Kühne, Greenfields, CONDOR, Domosports, Richter Spielgeräte, Manfred Huck & HUCK Seiltechnik, Sik Holz, Mapei, PARKTIECT, W.M., AST, ISS Solar, Hamberger, TenCate Grass, Engo, Zamboni and Seilfabrik Ullmann have confirmed their participation at FSB. And all the market leaders are already on board for aquanale. With companies like Fluidra, Riviera Pool, Speck Pumpen, Grando, Fluvo, OSF, Behncke, Dryden, Bünger & Frese, Rollo Solar, Compass Pools, Whirlcare, Niveco, BWT, Renolit and many other national and international firms, we can put on a really outstanding aquanale at the end of October. We'll also be able to showcase some new exhibitors and "returnees" - above all, Villeroy & Boch, BAC, Nextpool and Leisure Pools. We're really looking forward to this, and it will motivate us over

What's the next step?

Bettina Frias: We're currently consulting closely with our partners to set up the specialist event programme for both events in good time. With respect to FSB, the IAKS (International Association for Sports and Leisure Facilities) is, of course, our first port of call as FSB's conceptual partner and organiser of the international IAKS Congress, which this year has the theme "Developing healthy and sustainable communities".

Further FSB partners include STADT und RAUM, SPORTNETZWERK.FSB, the German Olympic Sports Confederation (DOSB) and the German Ice Hockey Federation (DEB). As the conceptual partner of aquanale, the German Federal Association for Swimming Pools and Wellness (bsw) is the lead body responsible for the International Swimming Pool and Wellness Forum, supported by the IAKS, the European Waterpark Association (EWA) and the Association of German Swimming Supervisors, Lifeguards and Pool Attendants (BDS).

What changes will there be compared to the previous events in 2019?

Bettina Frias: We'll continue our steady development of the clear physical and thematic separation of the international trade fairs while holding them side by side. FSB will occupy Halls 6, 9 and 10.1. All halls are at ground level and are connected via a simple circular route that has been optimised for visitors. The individual themed areas are being reorganised to bring related topics together. At the same time, we're also adjusting the structure of aquanale, which has covered themes from the private and the public swimming pool segments since 2019. In a change from previous events, aquanale will occupy Halls 7 and 8, which are located right by Koelnmesse's Entrance North and offer optimum access. This means that visitors to aquanale will be guided as effectively as possible through all the themed areas focused on swimming pools, saunas, spas and wellness.

With regard to the pandemic and the next steps, what further preparations need to be made?

Bettina Frias: Koelnmesse has made extensive preparations ahead of the restart. Our #B-SAFE4business concept takes account of all the necessary measures and official guidelines for the protection of our exhibitors and visitors. We've also set out all the relevant documentation clearly and are offering all exhibitors and visitors to the trade fairs as much support as possible, especially in these difficult times. Our service for exhibitors, for example, ranges from attractive and coronavirus-compliant stand construction packages to customised, voluntary audits of exhibitors' own stand construction designs to ensure that they meet the current regulations and will support the smooth running of the trade fair. We're also giving all exhibitors the option to cancel their participation at no charge up until three months before the start of the event.

As for the ongoing preparations for FSB and aquanale, we're in the important stage of planning the hall sections and, of course, we're continuing to have sales meetings with potential exhibitors and partners as well as specifically discussing their requests relating to participation.

Page

We're also working closely with our national and international partners on the specialist event programme and on various presentation formats to suit the current situation. For example, we're planning events that will not only take place in the exhibition halls and the congress area with a trade audience but also simultaneously on our digital platform. This is the only way we can meet the needs and demands placed on us as event organisers and achieve the necessary and desirable reach that these future-oriented topics require.

Please visit www.fsb-cologne.com and www.aquanale.com for more information about the hall structure and the individual areas of focus.

FSB 2021: Three questions for Klaus Meinel, Secretary General of IAKS

IAKS Congress at FSB: developing healthy and sustainable communities

As FSB's conceptual partner, IAKS - the International Association for Sports and Leisure Facilities - has been the key partner of the International Trade Fair for Public Space, Sports and Leisure Facilities since the very beginning. The IAKS Congress, which will be hosted for the 27th time as part of FSB, is the international meeting place for sports and leisure facilities, indoor and outdoor sports surfaces, public spaces, playground equipment and urban design. The panel discussions, expert presentations and workshops at the IAKS Congress will reveal the architectural and management trends that should be taken into account now and in the future. The overarching theme of the programme for the IAKS Congress in 2021 is "developing healthy and sustainable communities". In our interview, Klaus Meinel, Secretary General of IAKS, looks ahead to FSB and the IAKS Congress and, of course, gives his assessment of the challenging circumstances currently faced by the sector.

What impact is the coronavirus pandemic having on the importance of sport and exercise? What are the resulting requirements for future sports and leisure facilities?

Klaus Meinel: The sport and leisure sector has been massively affected by the impact of the coronavirus pandemic and, at the same time, we also need to respond to the challenges of climate change. Sport at grassroots and elite level faces financial uncertainties with respect to both public and private projects as governments around the world look for ways to recover from the pandemic. We expect financing and operating models to become more diverse, combined with an increase in the demands placed on the creativity and courage of those in charge.

User pressure on leisure space in towns and cities has grown tremendously during the pandemic. More and more people are turning to public spaces for exercise and recreation, but these are not available to all on an equal basis. Urban leisure space must not only be resilient, but also take into account the varying interests of active and passive users. Participatory and neighbourhood-based planning is essential. More than ever before, we need to take a holistic approach to social, environmental and economic sustainability.

As customary, the IAKS Congress will again take place as part of FSB 2021. Which themes will the event focus on in particular this year?

Klaus Meinel: As the overarching theme, we will look at how municipalities can create suitable conditions to promote a healthy and sustainable lifestyle for local residents.

Climate change and environmental sustainability are the global challenge. The congress will open with an overview of international objectives such as the United Nations' Sustainable Development Goals, the IOC's sustainability-related successes and future targets and TAFISA's Global Active City programme. Experts will use real-life international examples to discuss how carbon stored in facilities can be minimised through environmentally friendly design and how extreme weather conditions caused by climate change can be taken into account while a project is in the planning phase.

Social sustainability will be a key factor when it comes to leisure facilities for all. How can the accessibility and inclusivity of arenas, for example ice sports centres, be supported and made a reality? Sports facilities operating according to a 24/7 model and inclusive design will be the keys to success.

Congress visitors will also gain first-hand insights into economic sustainability, whether in the form of digitalisation or innovative approaches to financing and subsidising public leisure facilities. Examples of new successful models for stadiums and arenas can be seen in the rapid development of e-sports and e-sports arenas.

Finally, we will address the impact of the coronavirus pandemic on the operation of facilities and, last but not least, on the architecture of the future. In addition, we will present new strategies for improving the eco-friendliness of synthetic turf pitches.

FSB, the International Trade Fair for Public Space, Sports and Leisure Facilities, will take place in Cologne from 26 to 29 October 2021. What are your expectations of the sector's leading trade fair - and with regard to the IAKS Congress?

Klaus Meinel: Trade fairs provide an opportunity for face-to-face discussion and dialogue aimed at building business relationships based on trust. In the B2B segment of sports and leisure facilities, FSB and aquanale are essential sources of information when it comes to experiencing products. This makes Cologne the place to be every two years.

The IAKS Congress and the other interesting events planned for the trade fair duo will provide the sector with much-needed inspiration regarding the latest trends as well as design and development possibilities. They will provide guidance to all stakeholders as they face upcoming decisions in an environment that has been transformed by the pandemic.

We are confident that international business travel to Germany will be possible again for many nations in October. For those who cannot or do not wish to travel, we are also offering the IAKS Congress via a digital platform. This will allow us to give the already strongly international FSB an even greater global reach.

FSB 2021: #B-SAFE4business - Koelnmesse has shown how it works

Koelnmesse has demonstrated hygiene and social distancing measures that comply with the Corona Protection Ordinance at a showcase trade fair

In order to host trade fairs such as FSB 2021 - International Trade Fair for Public Space, Sports and Leisure Facilities - as in-person events and to provide a safe trade fair experience for exhibitors and visitors in the coronavirus era, Koelnmesse presented the prototype of a trade fair that translates the requirements of the State of North Rhine-Westphalia's Coronavirus Protection Ordinance into the event practice of international trade fairs with the #B-SAFE4business Village, which covered approximately 5,000 square metres in Hall 9 of the trade fair grounds. Under the title #B-SAFE4business, a campaign was launched back in June to explain Koelnmesse's comprehensive protective measures for exhibitors and visitors. A real-life experience has now been added to the campaign in the form of the #B-SAFE4business Village. The #B-SAFE4business Village was open to Koelnmesse's customers on invitation throughout the entire month of October, and many FSB exhibitors took advantage of the opportunity to gather plenty of information.

Distancing, hygiene, face coverings, ventilation and the coronavirus app: simple behavioural measures with a big impact are now part of our new daily lives. However, compliance with these rules poses major challenges for trade fair organisers across the globe. With the #B-SAFE4business Village, Koelnmesse has demonstrated how the requirements can be implemented at industry events and proved that the trade fair organiser is excellently prepared for events with several thousand participants from all over the world. The entire customer journey was mapped, from paperless ticketing and the newly developed eGuard app for directing the flows of visitors, to a wide variety of stand construction concepts that take the social distancing rules into account even when space is limited. New event formats and digital technologies showed how exhibitors can increase their reach with hybrid exhibition stands. In the field of event services, Koelnmesse presented its catering and hygiene concept, among other offerings. In addition to several Koelnmesse business divisions, various service providers also participated in the Village.

The resumption of trade fairs is essential and not just for Koelnmesse. As the world's leading trade fair for urban living environments, FSB in Cologne presents the global range of products and services for public spaces, sports and leisure facilities. It will play a decisive role in successful business development in the post-COVID-19 era.

Cologne is the only place where international business partners can meet decision makers from local authorities, clubs and associations, and connect with representatives from the fields of architecture and sports. The extensive #B-SAFE4business measures provide the most suitable framework for safe face-to-face interaction. The package of measures is an important signal that a new era is dawning and gives trade fair participants every reason to look ahead with optimism.

Early-bird pricing for FSB and aquanale still available until 28 February 2021

Build-up to the opening of the global industry platform begins

FSB and aquanale are excellently prepared as the build-up to the trade fair duo begins, and they get set to present the solutions and trends for resumed future success in the post-corona era to the sectors involved. The #B-SAFE4business safety and hygiene concept developed last year incorporates all the relevant protective measures that are necessary and vital to ensure the well-being of exhibitors and trade visitors while hosting trade fairs and events during the coronavirus outbreak. The co-located trade events FSB and aquanale, which will be held in Cologne from 26 to 29 October 2021, will play a crucial role in the development of the participating sectors because there is now an intense need to revive commercial relationships, network personally with all stakeholders and establish new business after a long period of uncertainty. And the need to exchange ideas and gather information is enormous: A good eight months before the trade fair duo opens, demand from Germany and abroad is excellent, both in terms of definite registrations and enquiries. Due to the challenging operating environment, potential exhibitors at FSB and aquanale 2021 still have time until 28 February 2021 to secure key benefits by registering early: Exhibitors applying now can already reserve their preferred size of stand area and stand location in the trade fair halls.

The clear spatial and thematic distinction between the co-located international trade fairs is being rigorously further developed with a view to the scheduled dates of the events at the end of October 2021 and will further enhance safety in relation to visitor flow management in the current coronavirus situation. FSB, the International Trade Fair for Public Space, Sports and Leisure Facilities, will occupy Halls 6, 9 and 10.1, with all the showcases located on the ground level and linked to each other via an easy route for greater convenience for visitors. Individual themed areas will be restructured, and related themes brought together.

In parallel to FSB 2021, adjustments are also being made to the hall structure for aquanale: The International Trade Fair for Sauna.Pool.Ambience will now occupy the attractive Halls 7 and 8, directly next to the Entrance North to Koelnmesse. This will enable optimal management of visitor flows through aquanale's themed areas covering the entire spectrum of swimming pools, saunas and wellness.

Further information on the hall structure and the individual focus themes can be found at: www.fsb-cologne.de , www.aquanale.de .

FSB 2021: the planerFORUM at the International Trade Fair for Public Space, Sports and Leisure Facilities in Cologne

A source of momentum for the design of tomorrow's innovative urban living spaces

Koelnmesse and STADT und RAUM Messe und Medien GmbH have been working together successfully at FSB since 2005. Among other things, STADT und RAUM Messe und Medien GmbH publishes the STADT und RAUM trade journal, which focuses on urban planning and open spaces, and awards the German Playground Prize. The two partners jointly developed the concept for the STADT und RAUM themed area at FSB. The STADT und RAUM planerFORUM is an important element of the strategic partnership and an established highlight for FSB exhibitors and trade visitors.

With the planerFORUM as a venue for talks and the associated presentation area for planners, consultants and associations, FSB has succeeded in firmly embedding experts and expert organisations within the trade fair as a crucial link between exhibitors and trade visitors. Centrally located in Hall 6, the 2021 planerFORUM has been planned in strict accordance with coronavirus regulations. It has one entrance with a registration area and two exits. The 14 seats are arranged so that the appropriate minimum distances are maintained. In addition, if required, the special design concept allows further trade visitors to follow talks standing behind a barrier without breaching social distancing regulations.

The presentation areas for planners - which will also be centrally positioned in Hall 6 within close reach of the STADT und RAUM themed area - have been designed with social distancing regulations in mind. They have a "comfortable" minimum size and are equipped with special features as standard, including protective glass screens for technical discussions with visitors.

The content for the planerFORUM on 26 and 27 October will focus on open spaces and movement. By presenting innovative projects, FSB will go beyond showcasing trends in the playground, sports, pool and amenity areas sector and fulfil its biannual role as a source of momentum for the design of tomorrow's innovative urban living spaces. Best practice examples of innovative planning will inspire the discussion in the industry with a lasting impact. Alongside current aspects in safe, COVID-compliant planning, the scheduled programme of talks will cover topics such as "Together! Open spaces and playgrounds for diverse target groups", "Cross-generational or accessible projects", "Young and old ..." and "Local authority movement spaces: the outdoor gym". The BDLA Day, hosted by the Federation of German Landscape Architects, is again scheduled for Thursday (28 October 2021),

The medium-term changes in infection rates provide planning certainty and are giving rise to a more relaxed outlook in the industry. This development will further increase significantly between now and the end of the summer as levels of protection are expected to rise thanks to vaccination campaigns, among other factors. To ensure that the International Trade Fair for Public Space, Sports and Leisure Facilities (FSB) can be hosted as an in-person event in Cologne from 26 to 29 October 2021, Koelnmesse developed an evidence-based hygiene and organisational concept in close consultation with the competent organisations and authorities well in advance of the event. The concept will be adapted to the current situation and provides the highest possible levels of safety for visitors and exhibitors.

Registration:

A one-off processing fee of Euro 150.00 plus VAT will be charged. Participants who cancel up to three months before the opening of the trade fair will be refunded the full registration fee. The registration fee will not be refunded in the event of cancellation less than three months before the opening of the trade fair. If you would like to register for the planerFORUM please contact STADT und RAUM Messe und Medien GmbH, Alte Schule Bannetze, Ochsenrft 2, 29308 Winsen (Aller), Germany.
