Wide range of international exhibitors registered for ORGATEC 2026

The leading trade fair for workspace and contract solutions strengthens its profile as the industry's platform for business and innovation

With the launch of the trade fair's exhibitor search tool and latest hall plan, ORGATEC offers a preview of its upcoming edition. It is already clear that a broad spectrum of international exhibitors will be taking part. From 27 to 30 October 2026, the leading international trade fair for workspace and contract solutions will once again bring together top brands, renowned experts and a world-class audience of professionals in Cologne. ORGATEC 2026 will follow a highly focused trade fair concept, explicitly geared towards business.

"Given the continuing challenges facing the market, particularly in several key European markets, the current registration figures underscore the international importance of ORGATEC 2026," says Maik Fischer, Director of ORGATEC. "The trade fair thus remains the key gathering place for companies, industry professionals and decision-makers who are actively contributing to the evolution of new working and contract business environments."

The economic climate in the furniture industry remains challenging - a trend that is also affecting the trade fair business. Against this backdrop, ORGATEC 2026 is refining its concept for the upcoming event as a clearly focused business platform dedicated to the future of working environments and contract interiors. The trade fair's primary objectives are to showcase innovative and holistic solutions, facilitate direct interaction between exhibitors and visitors, and cultivate real business opportunities. By offering a reliable platform for innovation, networking and the targeted development of commercial prospects, ORGATEC continues to support the industry even in periods of uncertainty.

A focused hall concept with a clear structure

As part of this adjustment to its concept, ORGATEC 2026 will have a more compact hall layout. Product segments will be organised into clusters for better orientation, visitor flow and efficiency. Visitors will benefit from a concentrated showcase and faster access to relevant brands and products. For exhibitors, the new hall structure increases visibility in a quality-oriented environment and encourages face-to-face dialogue with relevant decision-makers. The current hall plan is available here: www.orgatec.com/orgatec-exhibitors/hall-plan/.

An inspiring programme of events dedicated to tomorrow's world of work

In addition to the wide range of exhibitors, visitors can look forward to exploring the Wherever Whenever - Work Culture Festival, successfully launched in 2024 and organised in collaboration with Germany's Interior Business Association (IBA e. V.). A dynamic mix of talks, panel discussions, workshops, interactive sessions and exhibitions will give visitors the chance to experience the latest developments first-hand and discover new perspectives on tomorrow's world of work.
