Asia-Pacific Sourcing 2025 is recording a very good number of registrations

More than 750 exhibitors have already registered

In around two months' time Asia-Pacific Sourcing opens its doors again in Cologne from 11.-13.03.2025. More than 750 exhibitors will present their new Asian tools and products from the home, garden and leisure sectors at Europe's number one sourcing platform. In addition to an internationally unique access point to the Asian offering, buyers also profit from numerous possibilities for networking with potential partners. Online tickets for the event are already available free of charge via the ticket shop.

As the largest sourcing platform outside Asia, Asia-Pacific Sourcing brings manufacturers and sales companies from the Far East together with buyers from Europe and North America. The trade fair is already recording an outstanding registration status: More than 750 exhibiting companies are expected at the coming edition, which will take place in exhibition halls 7 and 8 of Koelnmesse.

"We are very satisfied with the number of registrations received for APS two months before it commences," said Sebastian Hein, Director of Asia-Pacific Sourcing. "The positive responses from the industry and the early applications of many exhibitors speak for its relevance as an indispensable exhibition. I am therefore quite positive that the 2025 edition will pick up on prior successes."

APS, which takes place every two years, sees itself as an important hub for multilateral import and export transactions. The goal of the event is to bundle the offering of the Asian growth markets at the Cologne location and systematically bring them together with the increasing demand from Europe and North America. As an order and communication platform, it presents products, innovations and trends from the hardware industry and from the house and garden sectors. The focus lies on the tool and accessories segments. The spectrum of the international manufacturers extends from connection and fastening technology, industrial supply, manufacturing facilities, locks and fittings to home improvement / DIY materials.

The focus of the "Best of China" special zone in Hall 7 is Chinese companies. The exclusive presentation platform is taking place in the scope of APS for the fourth time. 54 exhibitors in total from different sectors will be presenting their current products on-site. Furthermore, on the Central Boulevard the spotlight will be on special highlights that stand out for example in terms of their innovation, environmentally-friendliness and intelligent production technology.
